CRIMINAL NUMBER 17-257

DEFENDANT'S SENTENCING MEMORANDUM

Clemente Martinez-Lopez files this memorandum in aid of mitigation at sentencing. The Presentence Investigation Report prepared by Senior United States Probation Officer Jacqueline Widmeier concludes the advisory range is 10-16 months based on a total offense level 10, Criminal History Category III. Given the particular facts and circumstances of this case, the defense suggests that a sentence of time served would best fulfill sentencing goals pursuant to United States v. Booker, 543 U.S. 220 (2005) and the subsequent cases reaffirming its holding, and 18 U.S.C. §3553(a).<sup>1</sup>

I. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 11, 2017, the United States Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania filed an indictment charging Mr. Martinez-Lopez with one count of Illegal Reentry

<sup>1</sup> Mr. Martinez-Lopez was arrested by ICE agents on April 19, 2017. As of the date of his sentencing, he will have been in custody a few weeks shy of six months. However, because he was not transferred to federal custody until May 12, 2017, the Bureau of Prisons will not credit this first month of custody towards any sentence imposed in this case. As such, should the Court adopt the defense's request for a time served sentence, it is respectfully requested that the sentence reflected in the judgment of conviction be noted as time served or 5 months, should the Court wish to sentence Mr. Martinez-Lopez to a specific term of months equivalent to time served.

in violation of 8 U.S.C. §§ 1326(a) and (b)(1). Mr. Martinez-Lopez entered a guilty plea to the indictment on June 21, 2017. Sentencing is scheduled for October 3, 2017.

II. MR. MARTINEZ-LOPEZ'S PERSONAL HISTORY

Mr. Martinez-Lopez had a life which is similar to most people who stand before this Court awaiting sentencing for this offense. He grew up in poverty and was forced to drop out of school at an early age for financial reasons. At approximately age 27, he came to this country in search of work. Once here, he immediately began working and consistently maintained employment often working 6 days a week, 14 hours a day and supported himself while also sending money home to help his family.

As is common among undocumented aliens, especially those from Mexico, his efforts to cross the border resulted in contacts with Border Control Agents. Also common, is the rapid deportation without prosecution following these encounters. There is no question that this practice is employed due to the volume of people crossing the border without permission. By that same token, there can also be no question that this practice does little, if anything, to discourage border crossings. This administrative process was nothing compared to the present criminal prosecution.

His motivation for reentering was his children and family for whom he was providing financial support. As he remains in custody, he is faced with the added stress of hearing how his incarceration is affecting his family's standard of living. As a result of this, he is firmly resolute to never return to this country. Thankfully, the majority of his family is in Mexico and his girlfriend and her son intend to rejoin him in Mexico upon his deportation. This fact will eliminate his desire to return to this country. He realizes that he cannot return to this country without risking rearrest and additional, more severe, criminal penalties. Bearing in mind how long he has been in custody and the fact that he will remain in custody beyond whatever sentence this Court imposes awaiting deportation, this experience has impacted him deeply and has served the deterrent effect that his prior contacts with Border Patrol agents and deportations did not achieve. Additionally, he knows that the current political climate supports the implementation of harsher penalties for aliens with histories of prior convictions and deportations, such as he now has as a result of this prosecution. This further reinforces the need for him to refrain from reentering the United States.

III. APPLICATION OF THE STATUTORY FACTORS TO THIS CASE

The Court must consider all of the factors identified in 18 U.S.C. §3553(a) and impose a sentence that is “sufficient, but not greater than necessary” to satisfy the purposes of sentencing. 18 U.S.C. §3553(a)(1).

A. The Nature and Circumstances of the Offense and History and Characteristics of Mr. Martinez-Lopez

Mr. Martinez-Lopez’s work history and his motive for the commission of the instant offense, all weigh in favor of a sentence of time served.

B. The Need for the Sentence Imposed to Promote Certain Statutory Objectives

- 1. To reflect the seriousness of the offense, promote respect for the law, and provide just punishment for the offense.*

Mr. Martinez-Lopez’s period of incarceration is especially difficult given his inability to help his family. He was providing his family with much needed income on a monthly basis. The guidelines generally account for harm, but not at all for the motive for committing the offense, which is highly relevant. Mr. Martinez-Lopez understands that he should not have returned to the United States and is acutely aware of the potential for additional punishment in this and future cases. A sentence of time served would not promote a lack of respect for the law as Mr.

Martinez-Lopez is presently incarcerated and will remain in custody at a minimum until deportation.

As the Court is aware, deportations are not immediate and Mr. Martinez-Lopez is likely to be incarcerated beyond whatever sentence this Court imposes. A time served sentence represents a within guideline range sentence. Sentences within the guideline range are relatively common for many similarly compelling reasons and do not undermine respect for the law.

2. To afford adequate deterrence to criminal conduct.

A sentence above time served is neither warranted nor necessary to further deter Mr. Martinez-Lopez from returning. He understands what he would likely face if he returns in the future, which is unfathomable to him given his present guideline range. Mr. Martinez-Lopez has been incarcerated since April 2017. Mr. Martinez-Lopez will not receive credit for the first month he was in Immigration custody towards his federal sentence. Mr. Martinez-Lopez is very much aware of the significant period of incarceration he faces both and now and in the future should he to return again. Moreover, the fact that Mr. Martinez-Lopez was prosecuted for this offense, in lieu of immediate deportation, should serve as sufficient deterrence.

3. To protect the public from further crimes of the defendant.

Mr. Martinez-Lopez poses no threat to the public. He will be returned to immigration custody for deportation upon completion of his sentence. Protection of the public is of diminished concern in this case.

C. Kinds of Sentences Available

The range of sentences statutorily available to the Court, including the advisory guidelines range, are listed in Part D of the PSR. This range includes a sentence of incarceration of up to ten years, not more than three years of supervised release, a fine of up to $250,000.

Section 5D1.1(c) discourages the Court from imposing a period of supervised release. It reads as follows: The court ordinarily should not impose a term of supervised release in a case in which supervised release is not required by statute and the defendant is a deportable alien who likely will be deported after imprisonment. Moreover, the Third Circuit recently recognized the presumption against imposing supervised release in cases where the defendant is a deportable immigrant. See United States v. Azcona-Polanco, __ F.3d __, 2017 WL 3184723, *1 (3d Cir. July 27, 2017).

IV. CONCLUSION

Based on the above reasons, the defense respectfully requests the Court impose a sentence of time served.

Respectfully submitted,
